

February 2020

Poet Nikki Giovanni to give public reading at Emory on Feb. 22

Award-winning poet Nikki Giovanni will read from her work on Saturday, Feb. 22, at 4 p.m. in the Schwartz Center on the Emory campus. The reading is open to the public at no charge. Seating is limited and we anticipate a capacity crowd due to early interest, so we recommend arriving early (doors open at 3:30 p.m.) and planning for extra traffic in the event area.

READ
MORE

Traveling Billops-Hatch exhibit inspires Drew Charter School students

The team behind the Emory Libraries' traveling exhibit "Speak What Must Be Spoken" is bringing materials out of the archives and into Atlanta-area schools. Students at Drew Charter School are creatively applying what they learn to today's issues in their communities.

LEARN
MORE

Join us Feb. 10 for A Feast of Words

Emory's Center for Faculty Development and Excellence annually hosts A Feast of Words, which recognizes faculty authors or editors of books published in the previous year. The celebration, with remarks and a toast, takes place this year on Monday, Feb. 10, in the Carlos Museum's Ackerman Hall. Over 100 faculty members were recognized last year for books published in 2018.

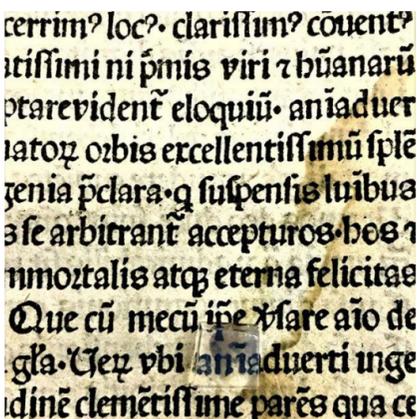

REGISTER NOW

Framing Shadows exhibit opens at Oxford's library

The fascinating exhibit "Framing Shadows: Portraits of Nannies from the Robert Langmuir African American Photograph Collection" has moved to the Oxford College Library, where it will be on view until December 2020.

LEARN MORE

A delicate process: Restoring a pamphlet from 1483

Our conservation team recently worked carefully with a small pamphlet from the Pitts Theology Library incunabula collection, printed in 1483, that contains a series of sermons. The delicate work involved removing a tide line stain created by dirt and water.

READ MORE

SUBSCRIBE TO KEYWORDS

KEYWORDS
ARCHIVE

LIBRARY NEWS
& CALENDAR

MAKE A
GIFT